By Associated Press

Ninety days are allowed to hear the evidence and ten days additional for delivery of an award It is expected that about twenty witnesses will be called by each side A statement given out at brotherhood headquarters today said

"In a general way the members of the two brotherhoods are asking for a standard rate of wages and a standard day with special rates for over time They ask for a five hour day in passenger service with overtime based upon a 20mileage hour running time In freight service they desire a ten hour day basis In hopes of standardizing wages among the employes of freight engines and trains in western territory, the brotherhoods have suggested that pushers, helpers, men on mine runs, belt lines, transfer lines, wrecking trains and other unclassed service should be put on a basis of through freight pay"

N.Y. STOCK EXCHANGE REOPENED SATURDAY

AIR OF HESITATION AND TIMIDITY MARKED THE SHORT SESSION

DEALINGS WERE MODERATE

At No Time Was There Any Movement Suggesting Serious Liquidation

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov 28—The New York stock exchange reopened its doors today for the first time in nearly four months to permit limited trading in bonds The conservative element had successfully resisted all efforts to renew business even in tentative form, until home investment conditions reflected some justification for such action It was evident, however, that the resumption of operations, even under the rigid terms imposed which included the establisment of minimum prices exercises a marked effect on financial sentiment. There was an unusually large attendance of members and the sound of the opening gong was echoed in loud and prolonged cheering

There was an air of hesitation and timidity in the short session of trading resulting in a number of material declines from July 30 prices, with a few gains chiefly in the industrial division of the bond list At no time was there any movement suggesting serious liquidation or foreign selling Dealings at all times were moderate Total business amounted to the insignificant sum of $644 000 par value exclusive of $5 000 in government bonds The largest single transaction was a sale of $20,000 Chicago, Milwaukee and St Paul general mortgage 4 1 2 per cent bonds in the early dealings at a loss of 2 1 2 points Offerings were mainly in lots of one to five bonds, best prices being established at the outset after which fractional recessions were general Altogether about 50 different issues were quoted instead of some 150 000 or more as in active times It is significant of the attitude of the exchange that minimum prices are subject to change from day to day In a word, today's minimum may be lowered Monday and with each passing day and the list will undergo 'general readjustment.'

RUMORS OF INCREASES IN SPOT OFFERINGS

By Associated Press

New York Nov 28—Rumors of increases in southern spot offerings were accompanied by a little trade selling in the cotton market here today The close was steady but at the lowest point of the day and from 7 to 12 points under the final figures of Friday The market opened steady with a decline of 2 to 4 points In response to easier cables General business was lacking and small offerings were insufficient to send prices to 7 30 for December and 7 52 for March contracts or about 13 to 17 points under the high level of yesterday

NO DECISION ON THE EAST

ONE REPORT SAYS GERMAN SURROUNDED, ANOTHER RECITES GERMAN VICTORY

ATTACK IS AWAITED

Germans Moving Large Bodies Westward in Flanders and in Belgium

By Associated Press.

London, Nov 28—"We have succeeded in making progress at certain points" is all that Grand Duke Nicholas, Russian commander in chief, permits himself to say of the battle of Lodz in which, according to unofficial information and presumably creditable sources, the Russians have gained a great victory over the German armies which made the third attempt to advance to Warsaw This brief reference to the battle added to what was said in previous reports from Russian headquarters is taken here to mean that if the Germans have not been defeated already the Russians have drawn a cordon around them from which they will have great difficulty in escaping

Some correspondents in Petrograd who quote highest military sources report that this cordon is steadily tightening and that the Russian guns are spreading death among the German armies They declare the only hope for the Germans, who are said to number 150 000, is that the two army corps sent to their relief may break through the Russian lines which they are attacking at Lenczca, northwest of Lodz

Germans Are Hopeful.

That the Germans have not given up hope is shown by the Berlin official account of the operations which tonight says the Germans have recommenced their attack and that the fighting continues General Von Hindenberg, who has just been made a field marshal by Emperor William, in an army order issued at Thorn says the Germans have brought the Russian offensive to a standstill and inflicted heavy losses Further south to the west of Novo Radomsko the Germans also claim to have repulsed the Russians, while for the armies which are advancing to besiege Cracow the Russian headquarters announces a "decisive success" In the last few days fighting in this region the Russians, according to their official reports captured about 15,000 prisoners forty cannon, twenty machine guns and some general staff officers This battle would open the way for the Russians into southern Silesia if they are successful Cracow, military men admit, would prove a hard nut to crack, but in this regard an unusually well informed Petrograd correspondent says the Russians have a surprise in store for the Austro-Germans

Allies Await Attack.

In the west the allies are still awaiting the long promised new attack by the Germans All communication between Holland and Belgium has ceased so that nothing authoritative can be learned of what the Germans are doing Reports continue, however, of large German bodies moving west some of them with boats and bridge building material

It is believed in London that the next attempt of the Germans will be made south of the Franco-Belgian border perhaps near Arras It is argued that should the allies line be broken here they would have to abandon their position in Flanders In addition with boats or without boats it is thought that the inundated territory would prove an obstacle to a German advance through Belgium to the coast

Losses To German Fleet.

Following a report from Petrograd of damage to the German fleet inflicted by the Russians in September comes the announcement through Paris that the German cruiser Herta has been sunk near Libau There are also rumors that the German battleship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse has been torpedoed in the Baltic Sea These reports lack confirmation The British admiralty, it is believed has solved the mystery of the sowing of mines off the north coast of Ireland British ships have arrested two trawlers one a Norwegian and the other Danish, which made thei rheadquarters at Feetwood on the English coast of the Irish Sea on a charge of having laid the mines. It has been suspected that these mines were laid by vessels flying neutral flags but it is hardly thought they were making a British port their headquarters

According to Berlin the rebels in South Africa have seized the police station at Hammanskraal, Transvaal, and forced the British to retire with heavy casualties A news agency dispatch from Copenhagen says the two cable lines between Denmark and Russia have been cut in the Baltic Sea, supposedly by German cruisers Germany has ordered its subjects in Portugal to leave the republic.

REFUGEES FROM BELGIUM ARE NUMEROUS IN LONDON

Beginning To Form Very Decided Part of Population in the Metropolis

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 28.—The word refugee has taken on a new meaning in London, where the presence of many thousand Belgian and French families of means has given to the city a cosmopolitan aspect which it never wore before. Many of the continental visitors are here because their homes have been destroyed or occupied by the Germans, and there are thousands of refugees who know neither poverty or real distress. All the better class hotels in the West End are filled with Belgian families, the restaurants are crowded with them, and they throng the haunts of sight-seers.

The portly father of a family, with the mother and three or four children are the most familiar figures on the London streets There is no mistaking their nationality, because all of them display conspicuously the Belgian or the French tri-color somewhere on their clothes In addition to the publication here of the Brussels newspaper L'Independence Belge, several London papers print a page of war news in French or Flemish for the benefit of the visitors and signs in foreign languages are abundant in shop windows.

Small parties of peasant refugees arrive from the continent every day, but the majority of them have been scattered throughout the United Kingdom in homes provided by the relief committees. Each party is met by members of the committee and taken in motors to the headquarters where Lord Gladstone presides, and is then forwarded to the Alexandra Palace or Earl's Court. In these big exhibition halls they live a barrack life until arrangements have been made for quartering them in private houses.

FAMISHED BELGIANS MAY ATTACK GERMANS

Driven Desperate By Hunger Citizens See Piles of Food For Soldiers.

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 28.—There is eminent danger that, driven desperate by hunger the Belgians in some sections will attack the Germans in an effort to obtain food, according to a report received today by Herbert C Hoover, chairman of the American Relief Commission, from a special commissioner in Maestricht, Holland The commissioner cited a statement by a refugee confirmed by others says

"In Berchem, two miles southeast of Antwerp, and the neighboring villages there has been for some time no food available except through the commission. At Berchem the Germans stored the food they had sized at Antwerp and which they stated was being sent to Brussels. Consequently the people, while starving, see quantities of food within reach. Meetings are being held nightly where the chances of success in attacking the German garrison and taking possession of the food are seriously discussed."

In the suburbs of Antwerp the commissioner's report says the refugees declared there was virtually a food famine. The conditions at Louvain, it is stated, are still worse The people are actually starving and are living in ruins.

The BUICK

VALVE-IN-HEAD MOTOR

Season after season of continued success has demonstrated the value and pre-eminence of the Buick Valve-in-Head motor, the motor, that has been the keystone of Buick success for the past twelve years. Searching and exhaustive tests by the world's leading authorities on gas driven motors, supplemented by years of experience on Buick cars, have proven the superiority of the Valve-in-Head motor over all other types. That is why it is found in Buick cars. That is why all Buicks give satisfaction.

Buick Valve in Head motors are dependable, that is why Buick cars always acquit themselves with fame in all contests That is why every winner in the American classic at Indianapolis this year was equipped with Valve in-Head motors Power in the motor car is seven tenths of the time a dormant factor, but when it is needed, the most important of all others Whenever power is needed, the Valve-in-Head motor is the most efficient. No engineers of recognized authority in either the United States or foreign lands hesitate to admit this. The leading builders of motors for all purposes where constant power is demanded, such as in the aeroplane, the submarine and marine engines, unhesitatingly adopt the Valve-in-Head type, although it costs more to build them

Buick Valve-in-Head motors deliver the maximum amount of power at all times and on instant demand Speed events are a severe test on the staunchness of the motor The wear and tear of months of ordinary touring usage is concentrated in a few hours of a fast race A motor that can stand up to win one of these events must be a stanch and reliable motor, one that will give years of service under ordinary touring conditions Every Buick Valve in Head motor is a racing motor when judged by these conditions as much so as its famous forebears of an exactly similar type, the great motors that have been winners in 94 per cent of all contests in which they were entered The world's leading designers of gas motors unanimously agreed that the Valve-in-Head type motor produces from 15 to 20 per cent more power than any other type. This means not only greater power, but more of it per gallon from fuel consumed

The question of fuel economy is of vital interest to car owners, and to car operators The Buick Valve-in Head motor accomplishes this saving of fuel by consuming all the gas and by keeping itself constantly clean, scavenging the carbons and waste gases, thus delivering the full amount of energy contained in the fuels

Twelve years of careful study and exhaustive experimental work has produced a motor perfect in principle and faultless in design; has combined its various units of motor ignition, carburetor, transmission, etc, into one harmonious whole—a unit power plant simple and compact, flexible and efficient

Year after year of faithful performance has placed this Valve-in Head motor far in the lead of all other types. Last season the Delco Electric System of electric starting lighting and ignition was added as an integral unit, and won unanimous commendation from every Buick owner

GERMAN CRUISERS ON NORTHERN ROUTE

JAPANESE STEAMER REPORTS GERMAN WAR CRAFT NEAR ALEUTIAN ISLANDS

REPORT IS NOT CREDITED

British Warships and Unknown Vessels Seen Off South American Coast

By Associated Press

Tacoma, Wash., Nov 28.—That three German cruisers which had been operating off the coast of South America have changed their base to the Aleutian Islands and were patrolling the trade routes between Pugent Sound and the Orient was the report brought today by the Japanese liner Tacomamaru, in port from Yokohoma While crossing the Pacific the liner received a wireless dispatch from another Japanese liner, westbound, stating that German warships were in the seas between the 180th and the 190th meridians The Tacomamru reported she had altered her course to avoid capture Precautions were taken on board the liner which for three nights proceeded without a light showing. The news of this alleged presence of German ships in northern waters is given little credence here.

LITTLE CREDENCE IS GIVEN REPORT

By Associated Press.

Seattle, Wash., Nov 28—British Columbia officials class as ridiculous the report that there are German warships along the northern trade route in the Pacific. According to their latest advices the German Pacific squadron has not yet left Chilean waters.

DO IT NOW

The appalling death rate from kidney disease is due largely to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms often give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer may slip gradually into some serious form of kidney complaint.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they act where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them Here's a case at home:

GERMANS RULE OSTEND WITH AN IRON HAND

Citizens Allowed Few Privileges and Heavy Requisitions Have Been Made

By Associated Press.

Ostend, Belgium, Nov. 28.—The normal life of this usually lively city has been radically changed by the German military occupation. The inhabitants are forbidden to leave their houses between 7 a. m., and 7 p. m. No lights may be shown during that time. No one can leave town without passports from the German authorities. Villagers from outside Ostend may come in only when attended by their burgomasters and the market hours are limited to Monday and Thursday mornings. All horses have been requisitioned so only dog carts can be used to bring food into the town. Butter, eggs, meat and bread are cheap but Ostend is without fish as all the fishermen have fled to England. Civilians are forbidden to approach the coast. Railway and electric trains have been stopped for everything except military purposes and have been used night and day for sending provisions to the front and for bringing back the wounded.

Little is left of what was formerly Westende, Dixmude, Ramskatellen Pirders, Capelle and Mennekensvere. Hundreds of wounded Belgians and French are brought to Ostend Those who can stand the journey are sent along to Germany Wounded allies are well cared for by the Germans Ostend is without newspapers, soap, oil, candles and coffee. The Germans have made heavy requisitions not only of food stuffs in large quantities but of cigars and wines and all available mattresses and covers clothing, linen, wire and bicycles. For the property taken the Germans have given requisition notes amounting to $1,000,000. Hotels are occupied by German bands playing in the parks every day but have only Germans as auditors, because the inhabitants boycott them

ED HOWARD, Manager

England is getting rid of a good portion of her old and obsolete boats.

Factories are city builders. Wichita Falls needs all she can get, and is not going to let any proposition that is fair escape her.

It is strange, isn't it, that while the United States is at peace with the world, money is bringing a higher rate of interest here than in either England, France, Germany or Russia, four of the big powers that are at war.

Natural gas has been struck near Corpus Christi. The Democrat thinks it is going to prove the greatest field in the United States, and that Corpus Christi is going to develop into a second Wichita Falls as a manufacturing city. Cheap fuel is the main thing for those who have money to invest in manufacturing enterprises, and natural gas at even eight cents per thousand cubic feet is just about equal to coal at $3 per ton. Here's hoping Corpus Christi will secure cheap gas and an abundance of it, and that she will secure the factories to make use of it. Wichita Falls is not the least bit jealous. There is ample room in this grand old State for several cities with the ambition and push that Wichita Falls and Corpus Christi are showing.

As this newspaper views it, if the eleven or twelve European warring Nations can afford to expend fifteen or twenty millions per day to murder their subjects and devastate their countries, they can afford to appropriate a few more millions to feed and properly care for the widows and orphans they are creating daily and hourly, and for the old people who had no one to look to for support but their sons, who have been forced to fight. That war is not being fought by those who brought it about, and the men and boys who are doing the fighting, or the greater portion of it, have little to gain, it matters not how the war terminates. It is a war brought about by royalty and the idle rich, and they should be required to bear the expense, for it is a foregone conclusion they are not going to do much of the fighting.

If Texas produces 5,000,000 bales of cotton this year, it means about one bale per capita of population. That's too much cotton, and if the landlords will permit, the acreage will not be quite so large next year. The trouble that has always confronted the tenant farmer in the cotton producing counties is that the landlord requires him to plant all cotton and very little of other crops. If the tenant does not agree to do that he will not get the land. For that reason those tenant farmers residing in the exclusive cotton countries should change locations, and if they decide to do that there is no county in the State that offers better opportunities for the producing of almost any kind of crops than Wichita, and adjoining counties. In favorable seasons it is no trick at all for the soil of this section to produce all the way from 15 to 30 bushels of wheat to the acre, and will strike an average of 15 bushels to the acre—taking good and bad years as they come. And as for cotton, it is nothing so very unusual for land in this section to produce as much as one bale per acre, though the average is around one-half bale. But there are other crops, such as corn, kaffir corn, maize, etc., all of which do well, and the tenant can plant the crops that suit him best.

FUTURE CLEAR AND BRIGHT.

(From the Abilene Reporter.)

President Wilson says the future is clear and bright, and declares that whatever business wrongs there are will be easily righted. The words of the President are indeed cheering words, and while we think the President is right about the business will ever be right. The President was speaking of fundamental wrongs, however, and there can be no doubt about the new Federal reserve banking system going far to correct these evils.

The future is clear and bright. Words like that, coming as they do from the foremost American, have a meaning that they would not have if spoken by an ordinary person. They mean first of all that the United States is going to be kept at peace, the greatest blessing that could possibly come to the American people. Next they mean that business is going to have a fair and square deal, but that business must give the same kind of a deal. Capital must recognize the rights of labor and labor must recognize the rights of capital. Economy and honesty are to be used in the administration of the government, and the people's rights are to be recognized as against special favors to the few. In speaking of a new day and new conditions under which the citizens of the United States may labor for their prosperity with renewed hope the President has struck a chord that will vibrate in every heart, and there can be no doubt the co-operation and support that will be given the administration in its efforts of fair play for the people.

The English government has voted bonds to raise a war fund of $250,000,000. That don't sound like the English expect the war to end next week or the week after. It also means that a good part of that money will find its way to the United States for food supplies. Perhaps it is not just the right thing for us to anticipate the needs of Europe in the present crisis, but so long as that war was not brought about by any act of the United States, this country may just as well profit as any other. That great war debt will have to be paid, but it will not fall on our shoulders. Everything considered, things wil soon be coming our way.—Wichita Daily Times.

Just increase the amount by one billion and you will have the sum appropriated correct, which certainly indicates that England expects the war to be prolonged. In the nature of things, the United States will profit in the long run by reason of the war, but after all, we will pay dearly for all we get. The temporary embarrassments and deprivations we are now undergoing are entitled to compensation and when they are thrown into the balance, the profit we may obtain later on may not be so great.—Denison Herald.

We knew it was something like a billion, but just wanted to be a little modest about it.

NOT A TRAVELING MAN.

Editor Times:

Kindly allow me to state that the man who did the shooting and other damage was not a traveling man, as stated in your valuable paper, but on the contrary a peace officer from an adjoining state. I was so informed this morning by one of our own peace officers. I have been dealing with the traveling men of our state for the last four years and must say that without one exception have I had one to give me a check that was not made good. I believe the traveling men to be made up of the very select men of this and other states. There is no other class of men that will compare with the traveling salesmen. They are carefully selected by their employers and in building up a reputation no line of business could afford dishonest men, or men of bad character. I hand you this as I believe I have the right to know and speak for the commercial traveling men of our state.

Yours respectfully,
WILEY WYATT.
Wichita Falls, Texas, Nov. 27, 1914.

LOVE'S DEBT.

(From the New York Examiner.)

It is one of the tragedies of life that so many people are never able to collect the dividends on the virtues. They are everything that is noble and good, but some unfortunate peculiarity of manner or temperament or character prevents them from receiving the just reward of their good deeds.

They heap benefits upon us, and we hate them for the favors we receive at their hands. They sacrifice themselves for us, and we would gladly see them consumed in the fires of their own altars.

The family circle offers the most continuous and piteous illustration of this unappreciated merit, for it seems to be the lot of those who do the most for their husbands or wives or children or parents to get the least love and thanks for it.

The family doormat is always trodden upon. The family martyr invariably gets more kicks than halos. The most adored wives and the most worshipped husbands are not those who are the models of domesticity. The black sheep son and daughter still have the fatted calf slain in their honor, while not even a breaded veal chop goes to the devoted children who have stayed at home and toiled for the money to lift the mortgage that has been put on the old home to pay the prodigals out of trouble.

This vagary of human nature seems strange, but the explanation is really simple. It is as if that is not enough to put people in debt for kindness. We must know how to collect the debt. And duty is a bad collector. In order to receive the reward of their efforts the virtuous must appeal to something in us except our sense of obligation. To be loved one must be lovable, and, alas, merit and attraction do not always walk hand in hand.

Do you know some woman whose devotion to her husband is so absolute that it is actually pitiful? She never has a thought that does not center in him. She burns herself to a cinder over the kitchen stove cooking the dishes he likes to eat. She would cheerfully be cut in little pieces if it would do him any good.

You would say that no man could be ungrateful enough for such unselfish affection, and that a husband should be down on his knees before such a wife returning thanks to heaven for his blessing. In his soul the husband probably feels that he should value his treasure as he deserves, but for the life of him he can't. He knows just how wonderful and fine such affection as his wife's is in the abstract. But all that he can remember is how she nags him about little things, how foolishly jealous she is, how she oppresses him with her domestic tyranny. So the woman loses all the reward of her devotion just because she doesn't know how to collect her debts of love from her husband.

One day last week Messrs. Benson, Paschal, Denman and Dodson of Charlie killed nineteen wild turkeys.—Henrietta Independent.

Hold up! Don't get excited. This item was from the Independent of November 30, 1894. The Independent reprints each week a number of items from its files of papers of twenty years ago. Another of these items reprinted in last week's paper tells of the capture of a gang of suspected train robbers in Sazenbacher's pasture, who were taken to the Fort Smith jail.

LARGE SHOPPING CROWD OUT SATURDAY NIGHT

A large Saturday shopping crowd gave the business district a decidedly metropolitan aspect yesterday and business was reported good in nearly all lines. The downtown section furnished entertainment for all tastes. At frequent intervals there would be a band advertising one of the shows now in the city and plenty of music was provided. Street preachers held forth on busy corners during the day vieing with a political speaker who also had a message. Other attractions included the stands of peddlers who offered everything from collar buttons to a cure for the pip.

Man Who Flooded German Positions Decorated by King

By Associated Press.

Dunkirk, France, Nov. 28.—The man who planned the flooding of the German positions on the Yser has been decorated with the order of King Leopold and are likely to receive some similar recognition from the allied governments. This man, whose name has not been made public, is the keeper of the great Nieuport sluices which control the water in the canals and dikes. His position gave him an unrivalled knowledge of the possibilities of inundating the country and he pointed out to the Belgian general staff that by using the railway embankment as a dike and by breaking the canal bank in certain places they could inundate most of the region occupied by the German trenches and advanced gun positions. His plan was adopted at once. The culverts in the railway embankment were filled with sand and gravel and then gun fire was concentrated on points in the canal banks until it burst and the water spread out over the fields.

CERTIFICATE UNDER OATH NECESSARY FOR MINORS

Law Relative To Consent of Parents For Issuance of Marriage Licenses Set Forth

In view of the several cases recently in which the county clerk has been compelled to refuse marriage licenses to persons not of legal marriageable age, the following is of interest:

"Article 2957 Revised Statutes provides that county clerks shall not issue a marriage license to contracting parties unless the male is 21 years of age and female 18 years of age, without the consent of the parents or in writing, signed and acknowledged by parents or guardian before an officer authorized to take such acknowledgements. If there is any doubt in the mind of the clerk as to the ages of either of the contracting parties, he shall not issue a license unless there shall be presented to him a certificate under oath from the parent or guardian or some other person other than the contracting parties that they have attained the ages of 18 and 21 respectively. In cases where a minor has neither parent or guardian, the consent of the county judge of the county of the residence of such minor must be obtained and must be in writing, signed and acknowledged by such county judge."

Dispatch Bearer Dog Dies in Attempt to Deliver Message

By Associated Press.

Dunkirk, France, Nov. 28.—"Marquis," the regimental dispatch dog of the 23rd French infantry, has been mentioned in the order of the day, having fallen on duty at the battle of Sarrebourg. At this action it became necessary for an officer to send a report immediately to his superior, but at the time the German fire was too intense to allow a man to cross the fire zone and "Marquis" was charged with the mission. Off he ran across the fire swept zone and arrived nearly at the objective point when a German ball struck him and brought him down. He struggled to his feet, though losing a great deal of blood and dragged himself to the position where the officer was directing the machine guns. He let fall the order, reddened by his blood and breathed his last. His soldier comrades are arranging for a monument on which is to be inscribed, "Marquis

VENERABLE "PRIEST IS FOUND TO BE GERMAN SPY

Identity Is Discovered When He Attempts To Say Grace at Dinner

By Associated Press.

Paris, Nov. 28.—Last week a battalion of French infantry reoccupied a village where the German had stayed sometime. Everything was destroyed excepting the church and the presbytery. An old cure of venerable appearance received the soldiers with open arms. He told how the enemy had taken him away as hostage and he had seen the hard side of war. Finally they had released him and he had been able to get back home.

The same evening the French officers invited the cure to their table. Before the first course was served the old man rose slowly to say "grace." One of the officers seemed surprised as the cure proceeded to murmur the Latin prayer. He whispered a word to the commandant and the next instant the cure found himself surrounded by four men with fixed bayonets.

The lieutenant then approached and posed a few technical questions to the old man. This lieutenant was himself an abbe. The other seemed confused and then appalled. He was unable to reply. "That one," said the lieutenant, "has never been a priest." The man on being searched was found to be a German spy.

GERMANY'S COPPER MINES NOW WORKING OVERTIME

Produce Very Low Grade But Constitute Only Source of Supply at Present

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—The famous Mansfield copper mines, near Eisleben are now working day and night shifts to turn out all the copper possible for Germany's military requirements. Under normal circumstances Germany produces only one-fifth as much copper as it consumes, the mines at Mansfield yielding nine tenths of the 45,000 tons annual production. This, it is thought, will be almost doubled by pushing the mining at Mansfield to the utmost.

These mines have been worked for more than 500 years. The ore is of very low grade, seldom running above three per cent and the ore vein is not quite two feet thick. The ores would normally not even pay the expense of mining but for the fact that they contain a small percentage of silver.

Germany in times of peace is the largest consumer of copper in Europe, importing more than 200,000 tons a year in addition to the home supply and ranks next to the United States in world consumption.

ARMY WINS FROM NAVY BY A SCORE OF 20 TO 0

Middies Could Not Hold In Check Smashing Attack of Their Rivals

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—The United States Military Academy football team defeated the Naval Academy team 20 to 0 in the annual game on Franklin field today. The gridiron superiority of the cadets over the midshipmen was as marked as the score would appear to indicate. The ball had hardly been put in play before it became evident that the Middies could not hold in check the smashing attack of their rivals. Punting was resorted to and the army's touchdowns came largely as a result of superiority in these exchanges.

NO ACTION BY ENGLAND IN NEUTRALITY CASES

That County Will Deal Directly With South American Republics

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 28.—Since the United States indicated that it was willing England should deal direct with Colombia and Ecuador in regard to alleged violations of neutrality the British foreign office has taken no further action. Nevertheless denials that a German wireless station is being operated in Colombia and that islands belonging to Ecuador are being used by the Germans for naval stations are not accepted as final explanations of the case. The suggestion of South American governments that the belligerents withdraw their warships from South American waters is declared by English officials to be impractical. The same view is entertained concerning the plan for the creation of a neutral zone off the coast of South America. This, it is contended, would afford an even better chance for warships to lie in wait for steamers engaged in the overseas trade. The foreign office is eager to take action which would relieve South American shipping from its present serious handicaps but doubts the effectiveness of measures so far proposed.

This created much interest among the ladies. The judges awarded the prize to Mrs. J. W.

W. W. Silk and others, drilling on the Crow lease at Electra, have encountered sand at 982 feet. They have drilled into the sand eleven feet, and the oil is standing 350 feet in an eight-inch hole. They will drill the hole down to the 1050 sand and set a liner drill in, throwing the two pay sands together. In the Electra field the 1050 sand is the great producing formation of strata, and they hope to get a much large rproduction from the lower than the upper strata. Until this well is put on a pump, it is impossible to tell what the production will be, but the upper sand looks good to Mr. Silk.

Without Charts U. S. Navy Helpless Outside American Waters

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 28.—It virtually would be impossible for the United States navy to make a strategic move outside American waters unless it first purchased British admiralty charts to insure safe navigation. This statement was made today by Captain Thomas Washington, hydrographer of the navy in his annual report. He said his office has now fairly begun the work of reproducing these British charts of which it would be necessary to purchase 1752. The hope is expressed that the United States soon may be independent of foreign map makers.

TEACHING SON FOOT SHIFT BOB FITZSIMMONS HURT

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Bob Fitzsimmons, former heavyweight champion of the world, was under the care of physicians here today as a result of an injury sustained while attempting to teach his son, Robert Jr., a foot shift which aided him in winning the title from James J. Corbett. The veteran boxer in making the shift fell and injured his right leg. He paid little attention to the injury and three days ago an infection developed. The former champion was said to be in no danger but will be required to remain under the care of physicians for ten days.

The attraction for the Majestic Theatre November 30 is a gorgeous motion tableau in which Annette Kellermann in the most admirable feature. The vehicle for Miss Kellermann's new honors is a delightful fairy play—"Neptune's Daughter," and as the favorite daughter of King Neptune of the Sea, she is in very truth a creature to excite exclamations of surprise and delight, for she appears as a mermaid—the fairest of Neptune's fifty daughters. And with her there are her sister mermaids, all beautiful and graceful and accomplished swimmers. It was no small task to surround Miss Kellerman with this aggregation of grace and beauty, for she is herself so perfectly at home in the sea that maidenless skilled in aquatic feats and less graceful would but awkwardly enact the role of mermaids. But, with twelve months work, the forty-nine sisters were chosen and a rare aggregation they make. Each one is an aquatic expert, and besides the physical perfection which they represent, they are notable for their sirenic beauty.

Whether she be swimming about in the waters of Bermuda with her mermaid sisters, sitting on the rocks with waves breaking about her, diving as she has done before so wonderfully in a deep pool with tropical foliage overhanging, and a group of eager children peeping at her and the Southern sky overhead; or struggling in the waters, bound hand and foot, as her enemies have cast her into the sea, or still more excitedly wrestling for her life with a hired assassin under water, the new pictures are epoch-making in the film plays. But, since they exhaust the vocabulary, one must needs see them to appreciate their unexcelled beauty.

"Neptune's Daughter" comes to the Majestic Theater Monday, November 30, for two days. There will be daily matinees.

American-Designed Gowns Figure In Fashion For Winter

New York, Nov. 28.—In the name of Charity a wonderful fete has just been given—a fashion fete where only American designed gowns were displayed. The proceeds are to go to aid the suffering Belgian women and children. It is safe to say that many families will be thankful to the enterprising society people in New York who are responsible for the success of this fete.

The foremost dressmakers in New York City displayed their gowns, which were designed especially for the occasion, each hoping, by some original idea to catch the eyes of the fashionable audience and secure their custom to themselves.

Ideas from many periods were combined with up to date styles to give variety in the costumes. For instance the drooped shoulder effect was shown many times with skirts so full and ripply that they gave the appearance of being over hoops. A dress of distinctly modern silk and with the newest basque effect in front had a drooped waistline in the back and a real bustle. You couldn't mistake it!

Rich silks, brocaded, plain and ribbed, chiffon, silk net, beaded net, cloth of gold and silver were the material used for the evening gowns, which were a prominent feature of the exhibition.

Broadcloth, velour, duvetyne and velvet developed the street suits and dresses.

The skirts were full short, even the skirts to the evening dresses. Inconsistent as fashion often is in these dresses they were sometimes short and yet with a train in the back. One evening dress was made of a peculiar green, almost a peacock shade, covered with a scrolly design which gave a watered finish to the material. The waist was made with a shallow V in the front and high in the back. The skirt was short and slashed in the front. In the back the skirt was slightly longer than in front but the whole appearance was shorter than we have been accustomed to. From the shoulders hung a long and narrow train of beaded net, which did not touch the dress any place but at the shoulders.

The long waisted moyen age effects were seen as well as the short waisted Empire effects. A dress of purple silk net was made with this charming short waist, a skirt hung rather full, draped up slightly in the back and ending in a modest train. At the back of the low round neck was fastened a wide strip of tulle which was caught with a ring to one of the fingers of each hand. This flowing effect of tulle is most popular. Sometimes it falls the full length of the gown, sometimes it is short, and again it is caught with a ring to one of the fingers of each hand. This flowing effect of tulle is most popular. Sometimes it falls the full length of the gown, sometimes it is short, and again it is caught only upon one hand. Often a scarf of tulle is worn with an evening dress. If the dress is white it may be in almost any delicate color, if the dress has color in it, however, the scarf should correspond in some way with the coloring of the dress.

Another evening dress was of cloth of gold. The waist was made very full over a foundation of white satin. A soft ruche of gold lace outlined the round neck. A bow of dull blue ribbon, tied with long loops which were wired, was worn in place of the corsage bouquet. The skirt was made with double flounces each scalloped with deep rounded scallops. Gold lace edged these scallops. The skirt was ankle length.

Full skirts were prominent. Skirts made with gores which rippled out in huge godets in the back. The drooped shoulder effect which was prominent in the days of hooped skirts is also seen.

A taupe colored velvet dress had a waist opening in the back, perfectly plain in the front but with plenty of fulness so that it did not draw over the bust. This waist extended from a low waistline up into a high collar which wrinkled softly about the neck.

A jumper dress of dark green broad cloth and velvet I have used for my illustration. The over-dress is of broad cloth braided in a simple but effective design around the V neck and deep armhole. The under dress and skirt is of velvet. The waist made with a simple rolling collar. A flaring velvet hat with a single quill for trimming was worn with this dress.

The military styles which are fostered by the war was shown in a suit of tan broadcloth. Down the front of the coat were frogs made of black braid. Bands of fur were used for the collar, cuffs and for a band around the bottom of the coat. This costume I have used to illustrate.

With this dress was shown a very charming Dutch costume of white broadcloth. The jacket was made like a full box jacket, the fulness in the back rippling in deep pleats. The collar, cuffs and band around the bottom of the jacket ware curly white lamb. When the jacket was removed the dress underneath showed a short jacket of blue broadcloth braided with white braid. Around the edges was an inch band of the fur. This was worn over a rather full waist and when the hands were placed in the cunning side pockets and held away from the body the Dutch peasant effect was most pronounced. One almost expected to see wooden shoes on the feet, but instead very modern white shoes peeped forth.

GET READY FOR THE GREAT PERIOD OF PROSPERITY

When the Mexicans have killed all ambitious natives American brain that is trained will be in demand. Great numbers of Americans will go to Mexico. This will thin out the trained people at home until salares will be better than now.

The war in Europe will then be over and the world will awake to see the United States the leader in all commercial pursuits.

Even as it is now we get far more calls for trained office help than we can supply. Our business is good because we give more teaching than any other business college in North Texas.

We have come to Wichita Falls without any favors of any one. We have taught a good school and the people have shown their appreciation by putting their children in school and the merchants have shown their appreciation by calling for our students. The demand has been so great that they take them before they can be graduated.

As was announced the first of the week we are going to put in short session branch schools that will be feeders to the home school here. Before many months we will have dormitories that will attract hundreds of students to Wichita Falls and they will spend thousands of dollars with the merchants.

Even since September 8, 1914, we have enrolled approximately seventy students.

FOREST RANGERS IS PICTURESQUE FIGURE

HAS VERY MUCH OF A JOB, HOWEVER, IF HE DOES HIS WORK

WATCHES OVER UNTROD WASTES

Builds Bridges, Cuts Trails, Prevents Forest Fires and Otherwise Guards the Solitudes

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 28—Out in the snow-piled reaches of 160 Federal Forest Reserves, a small army of Forest rangers, Uncle Sam's most picturesque employes are burning brush, making trail, and building bridges in order that timber for the multifarious uses of posterity may not perish from the face of the earth.

Mounted on snow-shoes or skis, and clothed in corduroys and mackinaw, the Forest ranger has settled down to his winter's work, far back in the wooded hills, miles from human companionship, with no line of communication but the attentuated strand of telephone wire, which he himself has strung behind him. For the Forest Ranger is a kind of "hibernating" animal that works while he hibernates, with the last danger of destructive forest fires gone with the arrival of the heavy snows, he deserts his lookout station, and devotes his attention to the work of the winter, the cleaning up of his range, and the maintenance of the trails he has wrought through the forest.

Busy With the First Snow

The first snows start the ranger out to burn the brush piles left by the logging crews that cut over sale areas, and free-use timber on his range. The brush is left in piles until a wet blanket of snow insures against the starting of forest fires from the blazing refuse. Then it is burned with the snow on hand as nature's own fire extinguisher.

The ranger furnishes up his snow shoes or skis, and patches up his hand or dog sled A way over on the other side of his range he knows there is a bridge that spans a mountain torrent, which needs considerable strengthening to stand the weight which the break of the winter's ice, and the spring freshets will put upon it. So he loads a quarter of a ton of bridge iron on his sled, hitches up his dogs, shoulders a provision pack and closes up the log cabin that he calls his headquators. He may have to negotiate a snowchoked pass, seven or eight thousand feet in altitude, where the wet heavy snow clogs his shoes, and where he may have to make three or four trips to haul his pack over the crest. When he arrives at his destination he may find his bridge buried under a ten-foot drift of heavy snow which he will spend a day penetrating. Through delays and heavy traveling, he may find his supplies giving out, and by the time he has fought his way through a snow storm back to his headquarters he may have been lunching for several days on frozen raw bacon, and sleeping in sodden blankets under a sheltering tree

On Lookout for Fires

Throughout the long winter the ranger is kept busy with just such jobs as these. Ten feet of snow may come down from the mountains and bury his cabin, and he must dig himself out and take the trail. And he must keep everlastingly at it until the spring break-up sends him scurrying to the high points to watch for the curl of smoke that foretells the coming of the forest fire.

Development of the winter work on the ranges has removed the Forest ranger from the "patronage" classification in government jobs. Formerly congressmen were inclined to look on the Forest ranger place as a desirable position for some constituent looking for "light outdoor work." That time has passed however, for the forest ranger must submit medical certificate showing that he is able-bodied before he is appointed. As the Forest Service puts it:

"He must be able-bodied and capable of enduring hardships and of performing severe labor under trying conditions; able to take care of himself and his horses in regions remote from settlement and supplies; and must be able to build trails and cabins and pack in provisions without assistance. He must know something of surveying, estimating and scaling lumber, and the livestock business; and in addition to this he should have a general knowledge of farming and mining."

PROTEST AGAINST VOTES FOR WOMEN AUDIENCE

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov 28—In protest against the latest request of women's suffrage leaders for an audience with President Wilson to ask his support for a constitutional suffrage amendment Mrs A[illegible] Dodge, president of the No[illegible] Association Opposed to Women's Suffrage addressed a letter to the president today She wrote that the attempt of the suffragists to get popular indorsement at the last election had "been a dismal failure" and protested "in the name of 20,000,000 mature women in America who are not suffragists" against national legislation "that would nullify the expressed will of the majority of men and women in the separate states to decide this issue according to their constitutional provisions." Mrs Dodge declared "taking figures presented to the credentials committee at the recent suffrage convention in Nashville, Tenn., there were less than 200,000 women suffragists in the United States, less than one per cent of the 24,555,754 mature women in America."

FRENCH OFFICER WRITES OF EXPERIENCES ALONG LONG BATTLE LINE

NATIVE VILLAGERS EXPELLED

Stern Measure Necessary Because of Presence of Spies in Nearly Every Town

By Associated Press

Paris, Nov. 27.—A French cavalry captain writing from a village on the Meuse describes in the Figaro experiences during the fighting of early October. Here is a translation of his letter

"We are garrisoned at R..... and I cannot complain too much, because officers, men and horses are remarkably well installed and I sleep every night in a very good bed in a house evacuated by its owner. The village is three kilometers from the enemy's lines. All the inhabitants have been expelled because many signals were given at night by spies and because of the fierce bombardment we have suffered. This is a measure very painful to enforce upon poor people, but it was indispensable and the innocent have paid the penalty for the guilty.

"It is a veritable siege in this part of the battlefield and our infantry is advancing very slowly, digging itself in as at Sebastopol, conquering 200 to 300 meters a day.

"My squad holds a supporting position at R. ..... It is all that the cavalry can do at this moment. We are 'fortress cavalry' so to speak.

Trenches Very Close.

"Our foot soldiers play cards in the trenches and amuse themselves only a few meters away from the enemy. The two lines are so near at certain points, that the soldiers throw hand grenades into the German trenches, 25 or 30 meters away, as the survivors of the Crimean war relate

"One must give complete approval to our general staff, since the positions established by the enemy are so formidable that it would be useless sacrifice of thousands of lives to advance over open ground I find that we have adapted ourselves marvelously to the new situation and our troopers among others, organize the defense of villages with great spirit. All very cheerfully they bore loop holes in walls and houses, build barricades and plug windows with mattresses against fragments of bursting shells. This diverts and amuses them. Moral and sanitary conditions are excellent.

"On our left operates the unit of Colonel Z ..... It is a reserve unit but the name of its chief even more than its military valor makes it the equal of units of the active army. When you ask the men of this brigade who their commander is they respond with pride and almost contempt at your ignorance. 'Why, Colonel Z... ..,' they say It is extraordinary to see how the prestige of a name is more than a flag It is for these colonial reservists a gage of success a fetish.

Tells of Seeing Dead.

"Yesterday I was able to escape a few minutes. The bombardment since October 1 has ceased completely. Our infantry is mistress of .. . and the enemy's artillery no longer fires upon the village. It is quite uselessly searching out pieces of our artillery stationed in the rear of the crest It .... Our artillerymen have prepared themselves remarkably well They have built shelters and suffered but little from the German fire

"I profited by a few hours of liberty to visit the battlefield near the woods of . . . to the east of B I saw there the most moving spectacle of my life. The dead are no longer counted. One forgot that these were corpses in seeing the high moral lesson which this spectacle taught I have sent my officers on a pilgrimage there. Treasures of energy had been extinguished There were more than six hundred where they had fought in the positions where death had raught them; one section in the midst of a bayonet charge, one section on its knees, firing, in front and behind us"

CANADIANS GUARD AGAINST RAID ACROSS RIVER

By Associated Press.

Buffalo, N Y, Nov 28—Extraordinary precautions have been taken to guard against a possible raid by Germans or German sympathisers across the Niagara River. A permanent guard has been stationed at Fore Erie, opposite Billafe, and the river front is patrolled day and night by between 500 and 600 members of the newly organized home regiments Automobiles and motorcycles are used for patrol duty. These measures, it is said, were taken in response to demands from civic organizations along the Canadian line who insisted in comunications to the department of militia that a movement similar to the Finnan raid was not a remote possibility. Major General Hughes, minister of militia and defense recently paid a visit to the territory. Soon after the guard on the Welland canal was doubled and today the river patrol was established

Sid Smith, editor of the Grandfield Enterprise, came down from that place last night for a short visit here.

HOME OF NOTED BELGIAN PAINTER STILL INTACT

Rubens' Residence Is In Hands of Germans But Little Harm Has Come To It

By Associated Press

The Hague, Nov. 28—The famous sixteenth century mansion of Rubens the great Flemish painter, standing in the line of the German sweep through Belgium, between Brussels and Antwerp, has suffered little from the depredations of war, although an unknown vandal has defaced some of the paintings that cover its walls. For weeks it had been impossible to approach the place and there was much anxiety as to its fate

The Germans had converted this shrine of art lovers to the service of war, but neither the house nor the fine old garden suffered much The house is now used as a pay station for the German troops. In the garden are many roughly marked graves of Belgian and German soldiers One stray bullet found its way into the house, which is surrounded by heaps of rubbish and broken bottles No doubt a thorough cleaning will transform the place to the quaint mansion which Rubens built for his young wife, the woman who appears in nearly all of the paintings of his later years and the mother of the boy whose baby face smiles out from so many of his canvasses. Some civilian souvenir hunter is declared to be responsible for the only intentional act of vandalism committed on the property, which is now owned by the Belgian Senator de Becker Remy. The vandal cut the faces out of some of the pictures that hung in the house.

During the German advance to Antwerp, a German detachment of fifty soldiers occupied the mansion. A Belgian peasant managed to slip through the German lines and notify the Belgian troops. That night a strong detachment of Belgian soldiers surrounded the house and after a desperate fight killed all the occupants. The Germans were buried in the old garden Later the Belgians were forced to abandon the place.

YOUNG BELGIAN SOLDIER HERO OF MANY EXPLOITS

By Associated Press.

Paris, Nov. 28.—No Belgian soldier is receiving more acclaim in the French press than Emile Sapin, who, at the age of 23 has received the decoration of the Order of Leopold and the cross of the Legion of Honor. LE Matin confesses it could not believe all the brilliant exploits attributed to this young man, who was a private when war was declared, and who was made a corporal only a month ago, but that it has investigated through inquiries not only of Sapin himself, who is now in a Cherbourg hospital, but also of many others and it cheerfully recognized the following achievements

First, during the siege of Liege, Sapin was in the fort of Loncin Climbing a tree and concealed by its leaves he killed an entire battery of heavy artillery said to number 4[illegible] men It is claimed that the commanding officer of this battery reached the foot of the tree, revolver in hand, only to fall as the rest had fallen [illegible] a bullet sent out by Sapin's rifle.

Second, two weeks later, he personally captured the flag of a regiment of Hussars whose colonel he also shot

PURE MINCE MEAT READY TO USE

Yes, I know that the word best is overworked when describing articles in a business talk like this but I have always aimed at telling the truth in everything I say in this newspaper and to DO that in this case I must use the word best. There isn't anything about Heinz's Mince Meat that can be improved or Heinz would do the improving. It takes great care and skill to maintain the quality that the name Heinz implies but you will never find any fault wtih this mince meat. One pound will be just as good as another —always the best.

Modern life, in the school, the office and the shop, makes greater demands upon the eyes than was made in any former age. This is especially true as to the use of the eyes in reading and in the various occupations in which we must look steadily at near-by objects. This close work or near vision keeps certain muscles in the eye under a strain for long periods of time.

The longer the interval in which the eyes are used in such close work the more tired and strained the muscles must become. Relaxation comes from looking at distant objects. But much of our professional and industrial life is carried on under circumstances which permit of too little of such relaxation.

Too much close work, long continued with little of the relaxation of distant vision, brings the various evils now classed as eye-strain.

Thus comes the necessity for a medium that relieves the tired muscles of the eyes and aids them to do their work without strain. The development of eye glasses to their present degree of perfection has met the modern demand for such an aid and relief to the eyes

FRENCH REPORT SHOWS NOTHING DECISIVE

By Associated Press.

Paris, Nov. 28.—The French war office gave out an official communication today as follows:

"In Belgium the artillery exchanges were continued during the day of November 27 without any particular incident. The heavy German artillery showed less activity. There was but one attack of infantry, to the south of Ypres which was repulsed by our troops. In the evening our artillery brought down a German aeroplane carrying three aviators. One of the men was killed and the other two were made prisoners. In the region of Arras and further to the south there has been no change. The day passed very quietly in the region of the Aisne. In Champagne our heavy artillery inflicted serious losses on the artillery of the enemy. From the Argonne to the Vosges there is nothing to report.

IF OUR

City Cemetery were left to a lot of old grumps and grouches it would make a fairly good dumping ground for city debris, and I am thinking if it were not for the persistent effort of a few good citizens, we would not be able to point with pride to this silent place. Even with our best efforts there are a lot citizens who are droning on the busy ones, and the only way they can locate their graves is by the location of some one's monument that they know is near. Isn't it sad the only thing some contribute towards such sacred grounds is complaints and fault finding. Such contributions distinguish character, but they don't beautify our BURIAL GROUNDS.

Should you wake up and need us, we would be glad to serve you.

MISS STONE HOSTESS TO PATHFINDER CLUB FRIDAY

Miss Delia Stone was hostess to the regular session of the Pathfinder Club Friday afternoon. Roll call was answered with Thanksgiving notes and the regular order of business taken up. The name of Mrs. M. A. Beckman was reported as added to the roll of membership. The lesson was taken up with Miss Emma Smith as leader. The Roman school of Italian painting was the subject of the afternoon and discussions of the life of Piero Della Francescia and Perugino, eminent artists of this perion, were given by Mrs. Burnside. The round table topics were Pinturicchio and Lospangia, two other exponents of the art of that period. On the conclusion of the lesson Mrs. Burnside told in a very interesting manner of the federation meeting at Galveston. After her talk of several minutes, the guests were invited into the dining room where Miss Stone served a delightful and perfectly appointed luncheon, consisting of a salad course with tea, sandwiches, fruit cake and salted almonds Mrs. Ben Bell presided at the tea service Those present were Misses Hazel Hunter, Emma Smith, Tula Stokes, Alice Burnside, Pauline Mears, Grace Nolen, Nina Barwise, Mrs Burnside, Mrs Ben Bell and the hostess, Miss Stone

MISS BARTLE HOSTESS TO MODERN CROCHET CLUB

The Modern Crochet Club was very pleasantly entertained Wednesday afternoon by Miss Kate Bartle. A slight deviation from the usual routine of the club meeting was adopted, this being the reading aloud of some book by a club member, while the others engaged in the usual crocheting. As tried out Wednesday this proved very agreeable and will be the plan followed at future meetings. The hostess, assisted by her mother and two nieces, little Misses Margaret and Lillian Bartle, served delicious fruit jello, cake and hot chocolate to the following members. Mesdames Hammond, Colboth, West, Brooks, Boone and Miss Elizabeth Forsch.

CAMPER-WADSWORTH NUPTIALS IN SOUTH DAKOTA

The following clipping from a Sioux Falls, S. D., daily will be of much interest here. It will be remembered that Miss Wadsworth was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. P. P. Langford, last winter, and was quite a favorite in social circles.

"Perhaps no wedding of the season will create more interest and surprise in social circles in the city than the marriage of Miss Augusta Wadsworth to Lester C. Camper, which was solemnized yesterday morning at ten o'clock at the parsonage of St. Michael's procathedral by Rev. Father Nolan

"The bride, who was attended by her sister, Mrs Theodore Bailey, as matron of honor, looked charming in a handsome suit of midnight blue broadcloth trimmed with lynx fur, with a neat apron of crepe de chine waist, and an attractive toque of midnight blue velvet trimmed with an iridescent bird. Her corsage bouquet was of sunburst roses The matron of honor wore an attractive suit of negre brown broadcloth trimmed with martin fur, with a large sailor hat of velvet to match Edmund Thackaberry, cousin of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

breakfast table was a large bowl of yellow and white chrysanthemums, on a large reflector which was banked with smilax and fern leaves which trailed gracefully across the white cloth to the four corners of the table, where a large yellow shaded candle threw a soft glow through the room. As favors at each guest's place were tiny wicker baskets tied with yellow tulle bows, and a wee tent made of yellow and white stick candy. A large tulle bow and cluster of chrysanthemums marked the place of the bride, while at each guest's place was a small chrysanthemums tied with tulle. Bowls of white hyacinth, yellow and white chrysanthemums and greenery were seen in attractive profusion throughout the home, which was lit entirely by yellow shaded candles. Horace Wadsworth, brother of the bride, of Dallas, Texas, was an out of town guest.

"Amid a shower of rice, rose leaves and the good wishes of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Camper left on the noon Milwaukee train for a short wedding trip, after which they will go to Des Moines, Ia., the former home of both the bride and bridegroom, and where they will make their future home. The wedding of yesterday was to have been solemnized at the holiday season, but the bridegroom's decision to accept at once the lucrative position that had been offered him with a large leather firm at Des Moines, Ia., hastened the plans.

"The bride, who is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D Wadsworth, is a graduate of St. Joseph's college of Dubuque, Ia., and has in the past been prominent in the younger social circles in Sioux Falls The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Camper, 425 West Third street, has with his parents made this city his home only for the last three years, and has for some time past been associated with his father in the Wear-U-Well shoe store."

PLEASANT PARTY AT BOGER HOME WEDNESDAY EVENING

Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. T R. Boger, one of the most delightful affairs of the Thanksgiving holiday season was accorded the youngest "younger set" in the way of a bunco party and dance. With Mrs Boger patroness and Wade Arnold as host, the guests attended in the expectation of an unusually pleasant time and their expectations were far surpassed. The guests included the members of Mr. Arnold's class, with the girls as the guests of honor In the lavish decorations in the reception hall and library, the class color, green and white, formed the color motif, a very pretty and intricate design being effected by use of trailing vines and autumn leaves in glowing tints. Tables were placed in the spacious library and six games of bunco were played. The girl's prize for the high score, a set of handsome gold pins, went to Miss Margaret Burnside, and the boy's prize, a book, was awarded to William Ward. The booby rizes, amusing children's toys, went to Miss Phoebe Campbell and Everett Whateley. As the games were finished and the prizes given, the doors of the music and dining rooms were opened and a five-piece orchestra started playing the grand march. The couples fell into line with Mr. Wood and Miss Ball and Mr. Arnold and Mrs. Thompson leading and circled through the rooms. Many new and unusual figures were introduced by the leaders during the course of the march. Dancing was then in order, the merry dancers being interrupted during the course of the evening by two special attractions, very cleverly conceived and carried out. One of these was a fish pond, arranged amid clinging vines and glorious autumn leaves, the class motto, "We Do Things" being worked out in the greenery. Fishing poles were distributed by Mr. Arnold and all found in the pond the favors of the evening All were agreed that Miss Orvetta Wyatt carried off the most valuable favor, a blushing cupid. The second attraction was found in an immense turkey gobbler which occupied the center of the library, bearing the tag "Win Me". A unique contest was then carried out, Miss Eugenia Staber being the fortunate one to carry off the prize Dancing was resumed after these interruptions and at a late hour a delicious refreshment course was served in the dining room. Miss Florence Sammons served punch throughout the evening. Mrs. Boger and Mr Arnold were assisted in entertaining by Mesdames Thompson, Wyatt, Clark, Lee Misses Sammons, Wyatt and Ball and Mr. Wood. The guests enjoying this evening of unusual pleasure included Misses Louise Montgomery, Ellen Adele Robertson, Lorna Shaw, Margaret Noble, Mattie Ruth Corlett, Anita Monroe, Ruth Simpson, Wilma Filgo, Mildred VanVoy, Adele Adickes, Margaret Burnside, Ruth McKenzie, Louise Leicham, Edith Yates, Phoebe Campbell and Fred Warner, Everett Whateley, Bill Bonner, Brennan Gillespie, Tom Taylor, Lewis McGinley, Arthur Fontaine, Cherry Campbell, Robert Nolen, Harry Burmenberg, C J Shumate, Twiggs Boger, Mack McGinley, S. Wallace.

Dr. G. B. Hamilton of Olney was the Thanksgiving guest of Miss Theola Yates.

NO BIRDS TO BE FOUND IN WAR ZONE IN FRANCE

Fighting Has Dispersed Practically All of Feathered Tribe—Game Also Very Scarce

By Associated Press

Paris, Nov. 28.—The feathered tribe of Belgium and northern France has been dispersed by the din of war.

In all the districts of the Marne it was noticed after the battle that the birds had disappeared. The Argonne forests also have been nearly depopulated of all kinds of game by the continual turmoil in those regions. Driven to detached woods and thickets where their dangers would have been increased in time of peace, they now find security.

Apart from their enforced exile birds are not the least fortunate of beings in these times, game shooting being prohibited in France

The markets furnished evidence that some poaching was going on, however, and the minister of war issued a warning that the sale of no other than imported refrigerator game would be tolerable. Early in the war soldiers supplemented their rations by taking a hare or a pheasant here and there, but this was stopped by order.

Scarcity of game in the market is no hardship for it is a small part of the alimentation of Paris The arrivals amount annually to only 1,000 tons of native and 450 tons of imported game, while the arrivals of domestic poultry, alone, aggregate 21,000 tons.

Belgium send 50,000 larks to Paris each season, while the game importations from countries are Austria 2,500 deer, 80,000 partridges, 50,000 hares, Italy, 25,000 quail, Austria 100,000 rabbits; 20,000 hares and 50,000 larks; England 40,000 partridges.

An effort is being made to substitute the Russian reindeer for Austrian deer.

No doubt considerable game that did not get away from the continually beaten war zone has been destroyed and the sportsmen who have shooting preserves in these parts of the country are pessimistic as to the future; they think it will require several years to repopulate those regions. On the other hand the prohibition of one season's shooting in the territory not affected by hostilities, it is thought, will result in immense benefit to game in general, and that next year and for many years to come all kinds of game will be more plentiful than ever before.

MASS MEETING ON GAS STOVE FACTORY

CALL IS ISSUED FOR TOMORROW MORNING AT TEN O'CLOCK

WILL COMPLETE ORGANIZATION

Large Part of Stock Subscribed Already and Effort Will Be Made To Land Plant

A mass meeting of members of the Chamber of Commerce and of citizens of Wichita Falls has been called to convene in the Chamber of Commerce room at the city hall at 10 o'clock Monday morning to hear the report of the special committee appointed at a mass meeting week before last to negotiate, in conjunction with the manufacturing committee of the Chamber of Commerce, with J. C. Ziegler relative to the organization of a company to manufacture the Ziegler hot blast gas stove.

This committee it is understood, has received a very flattering report concerning the merit of the stove and the practicability of its manufacture here and has entered into a tentative contract with Mr. Ziegler. This contract will be submitted at the mass meeting and if it is approved, as it is expected it will be the organization of a $50,000 stock company for the manufacture of the stove here will proceed. At a conference of the committee with a number of business men held in the office of J. A. Kemp Saturday $17,500 of the stock was subscribed. This with the arrangement with Mr. Ziegler leaves only $7,500 to be pledged and it is believed this can be raised within a day's time.

As soon as the organization of the company is completed it is planned to begin the preparation of a plant to manufacture the stoves here. The plant as now planned will give employment to about thirty five skilled mechanics from the start.

The most flattering endorsements of the stove are now coming in from every town in the State where they have been sold.

Under the agrement with Mr. Ziegler he is to put his patent into the company at a value of $25,000, this amount of stock to be held in escrow. If, as a remote possibility, the enterprise is not a success, Mr. Ziegler is to receive back his patent and the company is to go into liquidation the proceeds from the sale of the assets going to the other stockholders. Under this plan $25,000 stock is to be subscribed. The subscription already received follows:

Koenigsberg is the capital of this province. It is the central market for the grains, potatoes and commercial alcohol produced in East Prussia and, to an increasing extent, it has served as a commission market for the produce of neighboring Russian governments. This city is most widely known through its university, and most of that institution's fame centers around a brilant teacher of about a century ago, Immanuel Kant, author of profound criticisms of reason and conscience.

EARLY MAILING OF PARCELS IS URGED

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT GETS READY FOR CHRISTMAS BUSINESS

TO AVOID LAST MINUTE RUSH

Heaviest Parcel Post Business In History Is Expected During This Holiday Season

Mailing of Christmas parcels like Christmas shopping should be done early. The postoffice department at Washington has sent out instructions to postmasters all over the country to be prepared to handle the largest parcel post business in the history of that service during the next 30 days and urging that every effort be exerted to have Christmas parcels mailed early in order to avoid an overwhelming rush proceeding the days just before Christmas.

Placards have been furnished for posting conspicuously in the post office. These urge "Mail Early," "Wrap Securely," "Address Plainly." Parcels may be marked "Not to be opened until Christmas." A fifty pound package may be mailed to points within a radius of 150 miles. Twenty pound packages may be mailed anywhere. All packages must bear the address of the sender.

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS BACKACHE-RHEUMATISM, QUICKLY VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After A Few Doses Are Taken

Backache, urinary disorders, and rheumatism, are caused from weak, inactive kidneys, which fail to filter out the impurities and keep the blood pure, and the only way on earth to premanently and positively cure such troubles, is to remove the cause.

The new discovery, Croxone, cures such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering cells and glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism; it neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the tender membranes of the bladder, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, listless kidneys so they filter and sift all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting, are the results obtained from the use of Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to cure the worst case of backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and overcome the numerous other similar conditions.

It is the most wonderful preparation ever made for the purpose. It is entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth to compare with it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give desired results, regardless of how old you are, how long you have suffered, or what else has failed to

AT THE THEATERS

HIGH CLASS VAUDEVILLE AT THE LYDIA MARGARET

This theatre is now being booked direct from Chicago by the Interstate Amusement Co, and this alone guarantees the patrons something better, as this circuit is only used in the larger towns owing to the high salaries paid the performers. Some exceptionally good shows have been seen here since the new booking arrangement went into effect, and the increased crowds have been very encouraging to the managers. It goes to prove that high class refined vaudeville is what the people want and no doubt will bring more people to the Lydia Margaret than have ever been before. The new bill opening Monday for the first half of next week promises to be a very clever one, and the following are what the advance press notices have to say:

"Music lovers and lovers of terpsichore, will have a treat next week at the Lydia Margaret Theatre, when Lawrence & Lawrence, two clever exponents of the latest dances, will make their appearance there the first half of this week. Theirs is a manner all their own, with which they deliver these steps and their renditions on the piano are yet to be equalled."

The other act, Angelo Armento Brothers who are known the world over as the fastest tumbler and who have had this reputation for the past eight years, will be seen at the Lydia Margaret the first half of this week. Here is an offering that will have to be seen to be appreciated, there are do not fail to see their performance at this popular house.

The picture program for Monday is "The Lass O' Killikrankie," a comedy drama of the Highlands of Scotland in two parts. "Snoopee's Day Off" Sterling comedy

"TREY O' HEARTS" AT THE MAJESTIC WEDNESDAY.

In the last installment of "The Trey O' Hearts" story, Trine's special was vanishing round a bend in the track. At the opening of the present installment Alan's light engine comes to a standstill in the Kansas prairie. The fireman and engineer balk at going ahead or returning, as it is a single track section. Judith stands aside, outwardly indifferent, inwardly furious now that Rose, her sister, is of the company. Alan attempts to bribe the engine crew—there is an argument, followed by blows. When the fight is finished the engineer is a prisoner and the fireman lies at the side of the engine, insensible.

During this time Marrophat, aboard Trine's special, is having no success in persuading the frightened crew to back up. By force he overcomes the crew and signals to back up. The special is upon Alan's party before they realize it. Jumping from the train Trine's men open fire, a furious gun fight results. Taking advantage of the natural features of the land, each party describes a circle; Alan and Rose reach the special. Barcus and Judith come up on the other side. One of the guards vainly attempts to keep them off. The brakeman, who has escaped, gives the signal and the special, now carrying Alan's party, also Trine, is again westbound at top speed. Trine's men in the lone engine, give chase.

In the course of the day's run, hell brews on the special. Alan, introduced to Trine, mocks him and orders him locked in the drawing room.

Judith is the only one willing to attend her father. Through her jealousy for her sister, Rose, Judith is finally reconciled. Judith at first, however, refuses to renew her vow of vengeance, but on observing Alan embracing Rose, she flies into a rage and is only prevented from hurling Rose from the train by Barcus. Later, Judith promises her father to carry out her vow of vengeance.

Alan, Rose and Barcus subject and plan to lose Judith and Trine. The opportunity comes when the special is side tracked at a water tank in New Mexico. The engine crew mutinies, uncouples the engine and leaves the Pullman stalled. Alan, knowing that Marrophat must be in pursuit, secures a hand car. On this the three start off down the track. Later a freight train passes and Judith, disguised as a man, jumps on with her father's blessing. Shortly after Marrophat, in the lone engine, discovers Trine's stalled Pullman, couples it on and takes up the pursuit.

The special passes the freight train on a siding and soon comes within sight of the hand car. There ensues a wild dash through mountainous country—the hand car flying like the wind on down grades and managing, for a time, to keep the lead because of curves. Coming to a spur, Alan throws the switch; Trine's special is shunted off and runs some miles before the trick is suspected.

This enables the freight to pass. When it overtakes the hand car Alan, Rose and Barcus flag it and climb aboard. Judith, secreted in the box car, covertly watches this. As the freight starts on Judith jumps out and swings up between the caboose and the next car forward. Some miles further on the special, having backed up on the main track, again comes into view of the freight. Judith, standing on the top of the box car, waves a signal. As the freight crosses a trestle, she climbs down and uncouples the caboose containing Alan's party. Startled to find the caboose blocking the trestle, the engineer of the special whistles and applies the brakes. But Marrophat jams a gun into the pit of his stomach and himself opens the throttle wide. Warned by the whistle of the danger, Alan and Barcus pile out and help Rose down to the trestle. They lack time to make solid earth before the collision, so drop between the ties and hang by their arms.

The picture fades out as Alan and Barcus climb back to the trestle and help Rose half fainting up. We see them silhouetted against the sky.

"MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY" AT THE EMPRESS MONDAY

In this, the last episode of "The Million Dollar Mystery," before the concluding chapter is written and produced for the screen by the Thousand players, and the $10,000 prize awarded, all the scattered threads of the story are gathered together and woven into a single skein, leaving only the main questions to be answered. To gain the coveted prize it will only be necessary to locate and bring back the missing million, account for Hargreave's absence and whereabouts and the reason therefor and decide the fate of Norton, the Countess Olga, Jones and Florence disclosing the real identity of the last named two. That the mysterious documents, which Braine made such desperate efforts to obtain in episode twenty-one, play an important part in the final solution of the "mystery" also seems probable. Certain it is that the conspirators redouble their efforts to recover them, after their loss and Braine's narrow escape from capture by Jones and Norton at the bridge. Spies are constantly to be seen on the Hargreave grounds there are many conferences of the gang at their rendezvous in the cave and Braine and the Countess Olga strive desperately to form some adequate plan which will head off the imminent danger to their schemes. Old Jones, the butler, also makes many trips between the Hargreave mansion and some mysterious place, where he holds many consultations with Henri Serran, the Russian minister of police and another party, whose identity is concealed.

Realizing their danger the conspirators determine on a desperate plan. It is nothing less than the capture of Norton or Jones. A taxi which is driven by one of the gang, lays in wait, and Norton, coming from a visit to Florence, falls into the trap. But he has not proceeded far when the discovery of a black masque on the floor of the car enlightens him as to the real designs of the chauffeur. As they come in sight of a policeman, Norton nonchalantly orders the man to stop and then before the other is aware of his design has him placed under arrest. After a brief struggle the three proceed to the station house, where the reporter lays before the lieutenant on duty the information he has about the gang, and asks for a detail to aid him in raiding their headquarters in the cave. Previously posted by Serran, the official quickly acquiesces and a squad of bluecoats are placed at Norton's disposal. With them the reporter goes to the cave and surrounds it. Then while some of the policemen enter the cave from the water side, the rest of the raiders wait at the other entrance until the conspirators are driven out. There is a short, sharp battle, in which Norton's dog, Shep, plays no small part, and all the gang are rounded up and placed in cells at the police station. Braine and the Countess Olga, however, are not among them.

Meanwhile much has been happening at the Hargreave mansion. Old Jones' frequent trips to and fro have been closely tallied, and on his return from a short absence, he is accompanied by a tall, gaunt man whose clean shaven features bear a strange resemblance to the venerable butler's. The Countess Olga, who has been concealed on the grounds with another of the gang's scouts, hastens to Braine.

"Come quickly," she says pantingly. "Our time has come. Hargreave has returned. He has just entered the house." Forcing her way in, the Countess thrusts herself into the library, where Florence and her friend Susan are seated. "Where is your father?" she demands. "He is in this house, I must see him." Florence quickly takes a pistol from the desk drawer. "Leave this house at once," she commands.

But the Countess, although at bay, is not so easily to be balked. With a catlike leap she has sprung upon Florence and wrested the weapon from her just as Jones and his mysterious compaion enter. Threatening them with the pistol the Countess runs to the stairs, just as Braine coming to her aid, clambers in at the window. The Countess, seeking to aid her comrade, fires from the staircase. But instead of wounding the butler or his compaion, her bullet finds its refuge in Braine's heart.

"Father—dear father," Norton hears her sob. Then he hears the other say, "Now I shall tell you the secret of the Million Dollar Mystery."

BELGIANS COMPLAIN OF TOO MUCH SOLICITUDE

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 28.—Belgian wounded soldiers in the hospitals of London and other English cities are cared for with so much solicitude that they tire of rules enforced for their good. What they want most is cigarettes and smoking is forbidden except to those with slight wounds. "I wish I was in the hands of the Germans," said one soldier to a visitor. "They would not worry me with so many rules."

REPORT SHOWS OVER 10,000 BALES GINNED

TOTAL OF 10,420 IN WICHITA COUNTY ON 14TH OF THIS MONTH

[illegible] TIMES

BIG INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

Archer County Also Makes Large Gain—Expected To Pass 15,000 Mark In This County

Cotton ginnings in Wichita county had passed the ten thousand bale mark when Crop Reporter O. P. Maricle collected the figures of the county for the crop reporting bureau of the Department of Agriculture, up to and including November 13th The ginnings up to that time totaled 10,420 bales, compared with 4,917 bales on the corresponding date a year ago

Mr Maricle also collects the figures from Archer county, and his report shows 7,494 bales ginned in that county, compared with 3,495 bales on the corresponding date last year These figures were contained in the totals for Texas given out by the department a week ago Saturday. The figures will be collected for the next report on December 1, and the government s report will be made a week later, after which the figures for Wichita and Archer counties will be mailed back to Mr. Maricle and for publication here

Last year at this time practically all the cotton was ginned This year there are many fields that have not been picked The few days of rainy weather this week stopped picking and may hold down the season's ginnings, but it is believed the crop for Wichita county will total close to 15,000 bales, and the crop in Archer county more than 10,000 bales. This would make a new record in both counties

BUSINESS SHOWING OF TEXAS RAILROADS

FIGURES FOR THREE MONTHS ENDING SEPTEMBER 30 ARE COMPILED

MARKED FALLING OFF SHOWN

Expenses Are Smaller, But Revenues, It is Claimed Show Still Greater Decline

Special to The Times.

Austin, Nov. 28—General H. G. Ashkew has just completed a summary of business results for twenty-eight of the principal railroad companies of Texas for the three months ending September 30, 1914, compared with the three months ending September 30, 1913. These twenty-eight railroads comprise more than 90 per cent of the mileage of the State, and the summary, therefore, is a fair and correct index of what all the railroads have accomplished

The total operating revenue of said twenty eight railroads for the period of three months ending September 30, 1914, was $28 125 181 44 The operating revenue of these same railroads for the same period during 1913 was $29,622 586 68 The three months this year, therefore shows a decrease in operating revenue of $1.497,405 24

Last Year's Figures Cited.

The operating expenses of said twenty eight railroads for the three months ending September 30, 1914, was $22,045.547 74 For the corresponding three months of 1913, the operating expenses were $22,642,437 31, showing a decrease in operating expenses in favor of this year of $596.889.57. The net operating revenue for the three months ending September 30, 1914, was $6 079,633 70, while for the corresponding three months last year it was $1,980,149 37, showing a loss this year of $900,515 67. Other incomes for the said three months this year amounted to $1,054,138,09, while for the same period last year they amounted to $539,716 14, an increase of $514,422 35 in favor of this year

The gross corporate income of said twenty eight railroads for the three months ending September 30, 1914, was $7,133,771 79, as compared with $7,519 865 11 during the corresponding three months last year, showing a loss of $386,093 32 as compared with the same period last year. Out of the gross corporate incomes the railroads must pay their taxes, expenses of miscellaneous operations, hire and rent of equipment and joint facility rents, rents for leased roads, miscellaneous rents, interest on funded and other debts, etc These necessary and unavoidable deductions for the three months ending September 30, 1914, amounted to $8,163,362 31. The same deductions for the corresponding three months last year amounted to $7,368,93, showing an increase during the three months this year of $794,477.38.

Lacked Over Million.

These twenty-eight railroads, after paying operating expenses, which include only cost of maintaining track and equipment, operating trains, securing traffic and administration, had a gross corporate income of $7,133,771 79 for the three months ending September 30, 1914. However, taxes and other items above constituting necessary and unavoidable payments that must be made in order to keep the roads out of bankruptcy amounted to $8,163,362.31 during the same three months. Or to put it differently, the twenty-eight railroads lacked $1,029,590 52 of earning enough to pay their operating expenses and the other necessary and unavoidable items above enumerated.

For the same period last year the said twenty-eight railroads earned enough to pay their operating expenses, taxes and the other items as above enumerated, and had remaining $150,980.13

The said twenty-eight railroads, therefore, as a result of having to operate their railroads during the three months ending September 30, 1914, have suffered a loss of $1,180,570 70 as compared with the corresponding three months of 1913.
